

The Law Societies' Compact & Forum for SDG 16

Context

Today the rule of law is at risk. With a decline observed globally over the last three years,<sup>1</sup> establishing and maintaining the rule of law is now more than ever a fundamental imperative to promote social and economic development, human security, and access to justice for all.

At the core of the 2030 Agenda lies a clear understanding that human rights, peace and security, and development are deeply interlinked and mutually reinforcing. The United Nations Sustainable Goal 16 of Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions focuses on the promotion of peaceful and inclusive societies for sustainable development, the provision of access to justice for all, and building effective, accountable institutions at all levels.

As defenders of the rule of law and access to justice, lawyers play a critical role in protecting and upholding SDG Goal 16. In jurisdictions where lawyers and legal professionals are unable to carry out their duties, the rule of law and access to justice are weakened and effaced.

In this light, the World Bank Legal Vice Presidency is hosting and coordinating a new forum—the Law Societies' Compact and Forum for SDG 16—to amplify the voices of lawyers everywhere by connecting law societies across the globe. This Forum will coordinate, augment, and support rather than duplicate the efforts made by existing groups promoting the rule of law and access to justice at local, national, intergovernmental, and international levels.

Why the Law Societies' Compact and Forum for SDG 16?

Lawyers play a critical role in promoting access to justice for the least advantaged members of society. They provide legal representation and legal aid, and hold governments to account for failures to defend the rule of law. World Bank funded projects for improving access to justice, such as ones for developing mobile courts, legal clinics, alternative dispute resolution and mediation, depend heavily on the community of lawyers in places where these projects are run. This work is not without hurdles and requires cross-collaboration from existing networks such as NGOs and civil society groups. In addition, there is a growing need for support from fellow legal professionals for more effective outcomes.

What will the Law Societies' Compact and Forum for SDG 16 do?

- Harness the collective perspective, purpose and power of the global legal profession towards the advancement of the rule of law and access to justice as a tool for sustainable development.
- Connect law societies and their member lawyers in every country of the world and provide them with access to the knowledge and resources they need to build a robust and independent legal profession.
- Raise awareness of the challenges faced by legal practitioners across the globe, creating a safe space for discussion.
- Co-ordinate the existing work of lawyer collectives across the world in implementing tangible ideas to help countries achieve the rule of law and access to justice in support of sustainable development.
- This initiative has been developed by The Legal Vice-presidency of World Bank Group and The Law Society of England & Wales with additional input from the French National Bar Council and the Paris Bar.
- The Compact and Forum is structured as a sister organization to the World Bank-hosted Global Forum on Law, Justice and Development (GFLJD). It will share the GFLJD Secretariat.

- A research component to generate learning, documentation and systems that could contribute to the improvement of the rule of law and access to justice in the jurisdictions of members.
- A partnership component to work collaboratively with a wide variety of stakeholders, which may include experts with specialist knowledge in relevant areas for the benefit of the initiative.
- Working groups composed of members on a voluntary basis, to draw action plans for thematic priorities selected by the Board among members' suggestions.

How Can my Law Society Join?

Membership to the Law Societies' Compact and Forum for SDG 16 is open to:
